Dr. Hossain Zillur Rahman said in his speech, "I have always been shy about giving advice but here are few ideas that I would like to share. Success cannot be confined to one single definition. It's not just about having a particular goal in mind but it is always advisable to have few set of principles that would guide you with the failure and success." He further went on, "Those principles are retaining sense of humanity, working hard, establishing justice, respecting parents and elders, caring for those less fortunate, etc. God has created this world with boundless gifts. There is no need to shy away from these. There are millions of things left to be discovered, millions yet to be invented. Just keep the key messages in mind and the door of infinite possibilities will open from then on."

Dance, music and drama by the students of Scholastica were also presented. The cultural performances of the students prove that they are indeed multi-talented. ■
